A look at Frank Tiller’s achievements to date reveals that he not only conducted groundbreaking research in his field—chemical engineering—he also led the college into a new era of unprecedented academic excellence and played a major role in assisting Latin American universities develop engineering curriculum and effective administration. Tiller was the first dean of the UH Cullen College of Engineering. Click here to read more.